THE NUMBER OF WOMEN KILLED AT VICKS-BURG.-Captain Harry McDougal, who has spent several days at Vicksburg since its surrender, writes the New Albany Ledger that he has made the most careful inquiry as to the actual number of women killed in the city during the bombardment of the town by Gen. Grant. He learns that the number is twenty. Besides these, quite a number of correspondent incloses a tracing, is peculiarly not an an uncommon sight for women to be and that the number of them killed is attributable to the bravado spirit with which they thus exposed themselves. ILLEGALITY OF POLYGAMY. - The Deseret News contains a report of a case of habeas corpus recently decided by judge Drake, of Great Salt Lake county, which shadows forth what is in the future for Utah through polygamy. A mother, by writ of habeas corpus, brought her daughter of seventeen before the Judge, asking that the mother have custody of the daughter, who was then under the control of a man named Park, who claimed her as his lawful wedded wife. The case coming up for hearing, it was shown that Park already had one wife, by whom he had several children, and that his two wives lived with him in the same house. The Judge decided that the second marriage was not lawful, but a crime against the laws of the United States. and thetefore null and void, and censure rests upon it. The Judge decided the mother was entitled to the custody of the girl. The News and sometimes all three were adopted, as a characterizes the Judge's doings a "detestable proceeding" and an "official outrage.

The demand for mechanics in Indianapolis, says the Journal, far exceeds the supply. Many as are the improvements now being made, the number would be much greater if workmen were to be had. Good carpenters, plasterers, masons, and indeed almost every kind of mechanics, can get plenty of work and good wages. Mills, founderies, and factories are constantly turning off work because there are not hands enough to enable them to fill the orders.

Sources of the Nile .- A correspondent writes to the New York Journal of Commerce from Cazenovia as follows:

Newspaper notices have appeared, mentiong some maps dating back about 115 years, which the course and sources of the Nile are aid down with some approximation to the truth; as shown by the explorations of Speke and Grant. As another evidence that sometracing of the main features of African geography as laid down in a map of the world published in 1729, and found in a huge Dutch bible printed in that year at Dordrecht by Plater and Jacob Keur. On this map Californical nia appears as a huge island; the strait be-tween America and Asia is nearly as wide as the Atlantic, and our great lakes are merged in one vast, undefined inland sea. The geog-rapher's ignorance of America, however, is not more surprising than his knowledge of Africa; for the Nile is plainly shown descend-Africa; for the Nile is plainly shown descending from two great lakes about five or ten degrees south of the equator, and corresponding very fairly in position with those in which the river is now found to begin. There are trifling errors in placing those lakes too far west, and in giving the larger one a second outlet by a river running to the Atlantic; but it would seem clear that some explorations had been made prior to 1729 (probably by traders on the East Coast), which ascertained the existence of the great lakes which form so peculiar a feature of southeastern Africa, and peculiar a feature of southeastern Africa, and found reason to believe that they were the true sources of the mysterious river of Egypt. The map shows also an attempt to trace the course of the Niger, and a tolerably successful one so far as its interior course and its October, 1657: The course of the Nile is like a circle; it encompasses Gojam, but so that it rever returns back to its head, making directly to Sennar. And therefore Gojam lies always upon the right hand of Nile; but all the other kingdoms of Ethiopia, as well those that lie near as those at a distance, remain still upon the left. As it flows along, it takes in all the rivers great and small, with several torrents, as well foreign as Habessinian, which by that general tribute, acknowledge him their king; who, having thus mustered together all the waters of Ethiopia, jocundly takes his leave, and proceeds on his journey like a hero, according to the command of his Creator, to drench the fields of thirsty Egypt, and quench the drowth of thousands.

The spring-head of this famous river first shows itself in a certain land which is called Secut, upon the top of Dengla, near Gojam, west of Bagemdra, Dara, the lake Tzana, and Bada. Rising thus, it hastens with a direct course eastward, and so enters the lake of Dara and Bed, as if it were swimming over it. Passing from thence, it flows between Gojam and Bagemdra; but leaving them on the right and left, speeds directly towards Amhara. Having touched the confines of Amhara, he turns his face toward the west, and girdles Gojam like a circle, but so that Gojam lies al-ways upon the right hand of it. Having past ways upon the right hand of it. Having past the limits of Amhara, it washes the confines of Walaka, and so on to the extreme bounds of Mugara and Shewa. Then it slides between Bizama and Gonga, and descends into the country of the Shankelites. Whence he winds to the right hand, and leaves by degrees the western clime upon the left hand to winds to the right hand, and leaves by degrees the western clime upon the left hand, to visit the Kingdom of Sennar. But before he got thither, he meets with two great rivers that plunge themselves into his streams, coming from the east, of which one is called Tacaze, that falls out of Tigra, and the other Guangue, that descends from Dembea. After he has taken a view of the Kingdom of Sannar areas he taken a view of the Kingdom of Sennar, away he travels to the country of Dengula, and so comes to the Kingdom of Nubia, and thence turns to the right hand, in order to his intended voyage for Alexandria, and comes to a certain country which is called Abrim, where the stream s unnavigable by reason of the cliffs and ocks; after which he enters Egypt. Sennar and Nubia are seated upon the shore of the extended as far as the country residence of a riend near Harrisburg. The rumor of his being sent to the Department of Missouri turns out to be groundless.

But whereas I told you in a description of Nile, that all the rivers of Ethiopia flowed into it except two, I am not to be understood, as if I spoke of all Ethiopia. For those rivers that are upon the borders of the circuit of Ethiopia, which are near the ocean, they fall into the sea, every one in their distinct regions. Now the countries adjoining to the ocean, are these; Canbat, Guraghe, Enaria, Zandera, Wed, Waci, Gaci, and some others.

It will thus be seen that in the time of Visscher travellers had penetrated Abyssinia, and professed to give accounts of Ethiopia. We have another map, without date, which, from the workmanship, is doubtless contemporary with that of Visscher, in which Zaire and with brown drilling the warmth and durability faffinn are similarly laid down; and we find ty are doubled, while the protection against Zafflun are similarly laid down; and we find them on a series of maps through the seventeenth century until we come to a map of Af-Zembre Moras, and the other The Boas or Morasses of Zaflan; and the former is indicated as flowing north in a strong river to the border of Abyssinia, and then turning westward and supplying the Niger, while the latter has no outlet. On this map the theory of Ludolphus is adopted for the Nile, with a curious idea, which was suggested also by him, representing a branch as traversing the whole peninsula of Africa, and reaching the sea in

It is impossible to refer at present to other maps which are of interest in this connection. 11. If persons will drink brandy, it is incomparably safer to do so after an effort than before; for it can give only a transient strength, lasting but a few minutes; but as it can never be known how long any given effort is to be kept in continuance, and if longer than the few minutes, the body becomes more feeble than it would have been without the stimulus, it is clear that its use before an effort is always hazardous, and is always un-

12. Never go to sleep, especially after a great effort, even in hot weather, without some covering over you.

13. Under all circumstances, rather than lie down on the bare ground, lie in the hollow of sit on your hat, leaning against a tree. A nap of ten or fifteen minutes in that position will refresh you more than an hour on the bare earth, with the additional advantage of perfect safety.

14. A cut is less dangerous than a bullet-wound, and heals more rapidly.

15. If from any wound the blood spirts out in jets instead of a steady stream, you will die in a few minutes unless it is remedied; because an artery has been divided, and that takes the blood direct from the fountain of life. To stop this instantly, tie a handker-chief or cloth verey loosely BETWEEN!! the or ramrod between the skin and the handker-chief, and twist it around until the bleeding ceases, and keep it thus antil the surgeon ar-

17. A bullet through the abdomen (belly or stomach) is more certainly fatal than if aimed at the head or heart; for in the latter cases the ball is often glanced off by the bone, or follows round it under the skin; but when it enters the stomach or bowels, from any direction, death is inevitable under all conceivable circumstances, but is scarcely ever instantaneous. Whenever it is possible, do, by all means, when you have to use water for cooking or drinking from ponds or sluggish streams, boil it well, and, when cool, shake it, or stir it, so that the oxygen of the air shall get to it, which greatly improves it for drinking. This boiling arrests the process of fermentation which arises from the presence of organic and inorganic impurities, thus tending to prevent cholera and all bowel diseases. Special Despatch to the Louisville Journal. WASHINGTON, July 31. It is learned from the army that some of our forces occupy the heights of Fredericksburg, thus preventing the enemy from reoccupying his old position. The despatch sent to the morning papers reporting the breaking up and distribution of the 11th army corps is entirely incorrect. The orps still retains its fame and identity. The Wilmington (N. C.,) Journal of a late date has been received. It admits, in an alarmed editorial, that the late rebel reverses have called forth the voice of croakers, desponding to our soldiers and our citizens, telling them that there is no use in trying, that we are whipped, and they told us so. The Journal proceeded at a column's length o berate the peace party of North Carolina, and then goes on to make the following re markable admissions: "We have had enough of angry discussions in North Carolina, enough of party in all conscience. We deprecate, we avoid both. We appeal to the people on the merits of the question before us, and before them we wish to be strictly parliamentary in all we say. We wish to make no attacks upon individuals. We see movements on foot. We examine and characterize such movements. We tell our people candidly and plainly that we know there is an organized movement on foot to control the Congressional elections in all the districts. We say in all our cities that if this movement means anything it means reconstruction or submission. We warn the people at home, we warn the sol-

SABBATH RECREATIONS OF AN ENGLISH PEER The most celebrated man, at present, in England, is the Marquis of Hastings. This most noble peer has made himself famous by sacrificing six cocks on one bright summer Sunday morning. The Marquis is a model Sunday morning. The Marquis is a model man fer all Great Britain. His observance of the Sabbath is unique. Whilst the common potter's clay of humanity discharges what it believes to be its duty to Heaven by going reverently to church, and meekly listening to the dullest of sermons, the Marquis honors the sacred day by "fighting a main." Socrates had not made up his mind whether the gods of Greece were real gods or humbugs; so, to make things safe, he got his friends to sacrifice a cock to Esculapius; a singular piece of devotion which—as our Irish brethren would say—"beats cockfighting." I am unable to tell to what divinity the Marquis of Hastings sacrificed his six cocks on that bright summer Sunday morning, when the agent of the So-

It is to be feared that the most noble Marthat all our English nobility do not amuse themselves by fighting cocks, with steel spurs, on summer Sunday mornings, when vulgar people are at church. I am credibly informed that Lord Derby spends his Sundays in a different manner; and, though heaven only knows what that juvenile octogenarian, Lord Pam., might have done in company with his friend, Jehn P. Somers, long ago, it is rumored that Earl Russell takes much more pleasure in worshipping the Emperor of Brazil than in "handling" game-cocks. If you read the report of the Marquis's wonderful Sabbath doings, you will be likely to join me in rejoicing that the peerage has some other channels for letting off its extra animal spirits besides "Aunt Sally" and the cock-pit.

The lord of Hastings does not appear to distinguish himself by the high character of his associates. The evidence of at least one witness of the cock-fights is very remarkable.

This individual swore right and left, any way and every way; and he had not the least scruple in telling the magistrates that all he stated, up to a given point, was absolute and unmitigated falsehood; in fact (as he frankly stated), he was prepared to swear to any number of lies at a moment's notice, "if he only got gin enough." This was assuredly a very fitting person to share in the humane amusements of the most noble the Marquis of Hast-

Cock-fighting is supposed to be prohibited by act of Parliament. But the act which deals with the question is one of those won-derful productions which are every day being turned out by the English Parliament, and pockets of the lawyers.

The Act of Parliament which makes cock-fighting a penal offence could not reach the Marquis of Hasting; for his lordship amused himself privately, and got the cocks to slaugher one another on his own ground. THERE IS NO ISSUE MADE AGAINST THEM IN KENTUCKY. Judge Bramlette's Louisville Speech.

In the last interview we had with the noble and lamented Crittenden, five days before his death, he expressed to us his deep interest in the election of Judge Bramlette and of the whole Union ticket, declaring with emphasis his belief that no Union man would glorious patriot assured us, that,

With respect to the same point the platform of Bramlette is thus affirmed by the Northern Democracy as represented by the famous Albany Meeting:

The "Convention of the Democratic party" called by this committee duly assembled at Frankfort, and, being composed of notorious secessionists, and being denounced accordingly to the military authorities, was dispersed by the commandant of the post. This was the second stage.

Nearly a week after the dispersion of the convention, the Editor of the Democrat, alvote against any member of the ticket. The though his defection even then had strongly set in, represented the convention as a secession convention assembled under the name of Democracy. He said: We believe, however, that the convention was gotten up in aid of secession purposes; for it assumed the name of the Democratic party as a cloak to its designs, hoping thus to mislead the people. Under the disguise of this honored name, its leaders and those who proposed to inaugurate this movement to benef the South and take Kentucky out of the Un ion, hoped to gull the unsuspecting, law-abid-ing citizens, who are tired of the abuses of the administration in the conduct of this war. He further said in this relation that "the squad of secessionists assembled at Frankfort on the 18th inst., under the name of 'Democracy', were but the supporters and sympathizers of the rebellion."

The military authorities dispersed this "Democratic State Convention" before it had time fesses to stand on Bramlette's platform with to nominate the "Democratic Ticket" but not public. The principal resolution of this plat-

The objection to this expression, and to any expression of this kind, is that this kind of expression affords countenance to the false assumption which underlies the whole secasblessings it was formed to secure, that, in the kind of expression in question affords countenance to this false assumption. It does more. It serves to pave the way for the adoption of the assumption. When a man begins to specify contingencies in which he would "let the Union go," he has already loosened his own grasp upon the ark of our political covenant: he has taken the first step toward letting the Union go, so far as he is concerned, -a step which is seldem or never retraced. When he has once taken this step, the chances are many to one that he will go forward and not backward in the way he is treading. The step, fully considered, shows that he no longer accustoms himself "to think and to speak" of the Union as the "palladium" of our "political safety and prosperity,"-that he has ceased to regard disunion as "a remedy for nothing." In short, it shows that on this vital point he has discarded alike the counsels of Washington and the maxims of Clay. It shows that his patriotism has lost its bloom and its soul. Mr. Wolfe's use of the expression under notice grated harshly on our sensibilities at the time, but, not dreaming of the possibility of his defection, we dismissed the matter as an intemperate but idle flourish of rhetoric. The event, however, has shown how greatly we erred, and how sure and swift a herald of defection this form of expression is. reason they desire the election of the Wick-liffe or secession ticket. The Democrat admits that the Kentucky secessionists support the Wickliffe ticket. Yes, but that's not the most striking point in sion movement; namely, that there is an in- the case. The plain and undeniable truth is compatibility between the Union and the that the secessionists, the unquestionable and uncompromizing secessionists, those who have other words, the Union, instead of being the been secessionists and nothing but secessionists condition and the bulwark of our liberties, is from the very outbreak of the rebellion, not the instrument of their destruction. We say only are of the Wickliffe-Harney party but constitute more than nine-tenths of that party,-constitute notoriously almost the whole of it. The accession to the rebel party by the late apostasy of the Louisville Democrat was very trifling, scarcely worthy of note. The small accession did not change the character of the party any more than the brook changes the sea. The party is what it was, a thoroughly and intensely rebel party, as relentless in purpose as Death; and the members of it, in seeking to elect a no-more-men-and-no-more-money Governor and Legislature, and thus to throw the State Government into collision with the Federal Government, are laboring as earnestly for the rebellion as their brethren under Lee and Bragg, and perhaps far more efficiently. Fellow-citizens, we have told you the truth. Act in view of it if you would escape life-long sorrow and remorse.

The Democrat says "no one will pretend to assert that, in the eye of the law, crime to vote with any party." The ye of truth; and, in the last-mentioned eye, t is a crime, a crime of deepest dye, to vote with a party seeking to betray and overturn

At last we have got a confession from you that your miserable faction is sailing false colors, and that you do not intend

For the no-more Gilt Frames, Cornices, Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Ornamental Gilding, and Composition Work, men-and-no-more-money candidates? 'Yes! every man of them!

We don't know of anybody about here that has justified the arrest of men in the dead of night by no law except the Editor of the Democrat. He justified such arrests and long imprisonments to boot and contended that the hearts of the sufferers should overflow with gratitude to the oppressors. But is he laborwhole soul for giving men and money to put | ing for the Prentice-Bramlette ticket? Has down the rebellion notwithstanding his disap- our ticket got that 50,000 pound weight upon its shoulders?

The Democrat said that the Journal of to-day would blaze with incendiary threats to intimidate voters. Yet the readers of our paper will find no threat in its columns. If disloyal men, who have given aid to the rebellion and yet intend to vote, are threatened, it is from the law and their own consciousness that the threats come. In warning them of the perilous brink they stand on, we deserve

The Editor of the Democrat says that "Kentucky has to all intents and purposes been under martial law since the autumn of 1861." Then how came he to be so long and under the signature of "A Voter." The rascal so profoundly silent upon the subject? Why did he make no complaint? Did fear strike

JUDGE MARSHALL'S ACCEPTANCE To the Voters of the Legislative District com-posed of the Fifth and Sixth Wards of the City of Louisville:

City of Louisville:

Having consented, at the request of a portion of the citizens of this Legislative District, to become a candidate to represent it in the next House of Representatives, it is proper that I should state for the information of those who do not know me that I am a determined friend of the Union and am emphatically a riend of the Union, and am emphatically a Union man. I believe in the supremacy of the Constitution of the United States and of to give protection to citizens of whatever class, color, or condition, and especially those who are fully organized as soldiers in the public serice. The law of nations and the usages of ustoms of man carried on by civilized persons, permit no distinction as to color in the eatment of prisoners and spies as public as inst the laws of war, is a relapse into bar-ism and a crime against the civilization of age. The Government of the United the last session of our Legislature, and adopt-ed with others by the Union Democratic Con-vention which assembled here in the spring, attitude, of protesting against the unconstitu-tional acts of the party in power, but declar-ing at the same time that the rebellion must be put down, and that she does not skrink from her duty in co-operating for the accom-plishment of that object.

I approve of the action of the Union Democratic Convention just referred to and shall support the candidates nominated by it or unform. I concur with the common opinion of our State in a decided disapprobation of what Congress and the President. But I do not regard the withholding of men and money from the war against the rebellion, as a measnre which is required or which would be jus-tified under the present circumstances of the ountry. At present such a programme seems to be advocated in Keniucky alone, and as her adoption of it alone could have no effect in vindicating the Constitution, but would, by affording an obvious encouragement to the rebellion, expose her to the charge preventing persons leaving or chords, and place without passes. Allen tried to pass, and brought before Phillips, where he demanded to know if a Congressman was obliged to know if a Congressman was obliged to course the claim of that Confederacy of the claim of the was told that all were subject to the enroll-ment, and no one could receive a pass without give a signal and final rebuke to so indecorous a claim. I hope this may be done by the result of the approaching election. The particular interest felt on the slavery question may render it proper for me to say that the question of slavery in the States is one exclusively within the jurisdiction of each State for itself, and is therefore not subect to the will of the Federal Government or of any department of it. My judgment and feelings condemn all measures on the part of the dominant powers of the government, fect the impairment of this right of the States, or the doing away of the distinction made between whites and blacks by the laws and usages of any State. But the immediate and pressing question is raised by the rebellion in arms, vaunting its opposition to the Constitution and the laws, and rejecting their continued invitation to obedience and peace. For infractions of the Constitution by the offiers of the government, the Constitution it-elf furnishes a peaceful remedy, which, though slower than is sometimes desirable, is certain if the people themselves are to be relied on. But armed and persistent rebellion must be met either by arms or by a concession of its demands. The principles of the Constitution, even if allowed under the pressure of internal war to be in abeyance for a season, will not, cannot be lost. Generations must pass away before the American people can either forget or consent permanently to surrender the prin-ciples of liberty established by the founders of the Republic, and so long enjoyed by their

The Constitution, though temporarily in-fringed, will still live as the embodiment of wisdom and of the principles of freedom, and, as long as the Union which it established is preserved, it will be a rallying point to which Americans will look as the palladium of liberty, and they will restore it to its proper vigor. t is the rebellion threatening permanent dis-nion which calls for continuous action and for immediate suppression.

ASTROLOGY. Look Out! Good News for All! THE NEVER-FAILING MADAME ISABEL SNELL is the best. She succeeds when all others have failed. All who are in trouble; all who have been unfortunate; all whose fond hopes have been disappointed, crushed, and blasted by false promises and deceit—all fly to her for advice and satisfaction.

In love affairs she never fails. She shows you the likeness of your future husband or wife. She guides the single to a happy marriage. Her aid and advice have been solicited in innumerable instances, and the result has always been the means of securing a speedy and happy marriage. She is therefore a sure dependence. No. 215 Fifth street, nearly opposite

Where, with increased facilities, they will continue to keep on hand a large stock of everything in their line, and happy marriage. She is therefore a sure dependence.

It is well known to the public at large that she was the first and she is now the only person in this country who can show the likeness in reality, and who can give entire satisfaction on all the concerns of life, which can be attested and proved by thousands, both married and single, who daily and eagerly visit her. To all in business her advice is invaluable. She can foretell, with the greatest certainty, the result of all commercial and business transactions. Madame Snell is a bona fide Astrologist that every one can depend upon. She is the greatest Astrologist of the nineteenth century. Some ladies may be a little timid, though they need not fear, for she practiese nothing but what is reconcilable to philosophers; in fact a single visit will satisfy the most fastiflous of her respectability, moral rectitude, and of the purity of her profession and practice. All interviews are strictly private and confidential; therefore come, one—come, all.

Prices reduced to suit the times.* Ladies one dollar; gentlemen two dollars.

P. S.—Madame Snell will tell the names and ages of all visitors, and will also cast their Horocoppe and give them their nativity, also tell the place where they will be noted fortunate.
